

The Rossi-Doria Centre (CRES), Roma Tre University; the Italian Centre for International Development, University of Tor Vergata, and the Department of Economics and Social Sciences, Sapienza University, in partnership with the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), are organizing the First Edition of

International School for Advanced Training
“Impact Evaluation of Development policies:
Concepts, Methods, Applications”
17-21 June 2019

Objective

The School is designed to serve the needs of government and non-governmental organization officials, private professionals and practitioners, researchers and doctoral students with an interest in development and public policy evaluation. The objective is to provide participants with the skills and competences for impact evaluations in development policies. This will be achieved through a focus on both a “hands-on” approach to the discussion of specific examples of policies and programs, and also on the most recent analytical techniques.

Organization

The School focuses on three pillars:

- CONCEPTS
Identification of the policy framework (e.g. policy maker’s objectives, program beneficiaries, contextual factors).
- METHODS
Identification of the key instruments for assessing the policy’s impact. How to select the most suitable tool in light of the specific context and how to apply it.
- APPLICATIONS
The practice of the policy’s impact evaluation. How to carry out the evaluation exercise, useful data sources and data collection, software and main statistical packages. This will be mainly achieved in the lab sessions in the afternoon.

A series of multimedia materials, specifically designed to provide participants with the basic knowledge required to understand and benefit from the lessons of the course, will be made available before the start of the School.

The School course will be held at the Economics Department of Roma Tre University. There is a limit of about 20 participants.
