TRADE2020/A3/A06 – VA Module in the GTAP model: Development update, 2020.

Global value chains are increasingly relevant both in theoretical and empirical analysis. Quantitative models, which succeed to integrate the value added embodied within the trade flows are essential for international trade policy analysis. This decomposition serves as a useful tool to make informed decisions in the field of political economy. The aim of the project is to provide an update on the decomposition of the gross GTAP trade data into Valued Added trade data, by integrating this extra information directly in the GTAP model code.

Rossi-Doria Centre research team: Luca Salvatici (coordinator), Ilaria Fusacchia, Anna Giunta, Silvia Nenci.

VA Module in the GTAP Model-Development update, 2020.

The retaliatory measures taken by China, in reaction to the U.S. decision to raise tariffs on their exports, will cause widespread impacts to all trading partners. The purpose of this study is to assess the impact on Italian exports, using a global Computable General Equilibrium model.

Rossi-Doria Centre research team: Luca Salvatici (coordinator), Fabrizio De Filippis, Ilaria Fusacchia.

Economy-Wide Analysis of Food Waste Reductions and Related Costs, 2018.

Funded by EuroCARE.

Reducing food waste has become a policy priority in recent years. However, the economic impacts of food waste reduction are yet to be thoroughly studied. Manlio Rossi-Doria

1905-1988

One of the greatest Meridionalist thinkers, in the wake of Giustino Fortunato and Francesco Saverio Nitti, Rossi-Doria devoted both his scientific analysis and political engagement to the issues involved in the socio-economic development of Southern Italy.

As an active anti-fascist, in 1930 he was arrested and sentenced for subversive activities. In 1940 he was sent to confinement in Basilicata from where he participated in the foundation of the anti-fascist Action Party. In post-war, he played a leading role in the political life of the Italian Republic and was elected to the Senate.

In 1948 he was appointed Professor of Agricultural Economics and Policy at the Department of Agriculture of the Federico II University, in Portici (Naples), where in 1959 he founded the Centro di Specializzazione e Ricerche Economico Agrarie per il Mezzogiorno, a centre for advanced studies and research in agricultural economics.

His scientific commitment as an agricultural economist was characterised by a deep and continuous intertwining with institutional experiences and responsibilities. In the post-war period he contributed to the Agrarian Reform and from 1944 to 1948 he was appointed commissioner at the Istituto Nazionale di Economia Agraria (National Institute of Agricultural Economics, INEA). In the seventies, he was counselor of the Cassa per il Mezzogiorno, and from 1981 until 1988 he was President of the Associazione Nazionale per gli Interessi del Mezzogiorno d'Italia (National Association for the Interests of the Italian Mezzogiorno, ANIMI).

He was an enthusiastic supporter of the European Community and of its Common Agricultural Policy as a unique occasion for modernising Italy and its agricultural sector. He is unanimously regarded as one of the most influential agricultural economists of the second half of the XX Century. An inspired writer, Rossi-Doria authored many milestone analyses of the peasant farming sector and of the agricultural policies and their impacts. He was a precursor in understanding the relevance of the environmental and landscape crucial implications of agricultural activities.
